The French in North America Henry Putney Beers 1983

Archaeological Investigation Martin Carver 2013-10-18 Drawing its numerous examples from Britain and beyond, Archaeological Investigation explores the procedures used in field archaeology travelling over the whole process from discovery to publication. Divided into four parts, it argues for a set of principles in part one, describes work in the field in part two and how to write up in part three. Part four describes the modern world in which all types of archaeologist operate, academic and professional. The central chapter ‘Projects Galore’ takes the reader on a whirlwind tour through different kinds of investigation including in caves, gravel quarries, towns, historic buildings and underwater. Archaeological Investigation intends to be a companion for a newcomer to professional archaeology – from a student introduction (part one), to first practical work (part two) to the first responsibilities for producing reports (part three) and, in part four, to the tasks of project design and heritage curation that provide the meat and drink of the fully fledged professional. The book also proposes new ways of doing things, tried out over the author’s thirty years in the field and brought together here for the first time. This is no plodding manual but an inspiring, provocative, informative and entertaining book, urging that archaeological investigation is one of the most important things society does.

Recueil Des Cours, Collected Courses 1928 1968-12-01 The Academy is a prestigious international institution for the study and teaching of Public and Private International Law and related subjects. The work of the Hague Academy receives the support and recognition of the UN. Its purpose is to encourage a thorough and impartial examination of the problems arising from international relations in the field of law. The courses deal with the theoretical and practical aspects of the subject, including legislation and case law. All courses at the Academy are, in principle, published in the language in which they were delivered in the "Collected Courses of the Hague Academy of International Law .

Inscription and Erasure Roger Chartier 2007 Roger Chartier examines how authors transformed the material realities of writing or of publication into an aesthetic resource exploited for poetic, dramatic, or narrative ends.

The Mystical Life of Jesus Harvey Spencer Lewis 1929

The Friction and Lubrication of Solids F. P. Bowden 1950

A Spirit of Tolerance Amadou Hampate Ba 2008 Biography of Tierno Bokar (1875-1939), an early twentieth-century African mystic and Muslim spiritual teacher, written by one of his students.

Classics of Moral and Political Theory Michael L. Morgan 2011-09-15 The fifth edition of Michael L. Morgan's Classics of Moral and Political Theory broadens the scope and increases the versatility of this landmark anthology by offering new selections from Aristotle's Politics, Aquinas' Disputed Questions on Virtue and Treatise on Law, as well as the entirety of Locke's Letter Concerning Toleration, Kant's To Perpetual Peace, and Nietzsche's On the Advantage and Disadvantage of History for Life.

Organization of a Bank Chris Argyris 1954

Pierre Sur Pierre Gaston Bardet 1945

The low power scrapbook Radio Society of Great Britain 2001

British Emigration to British North America Helen I. Cowan 1961-12 In 1928 Miss Cowan published in the series "University of Toronto Studies, History and Economics" her first work on population movements: British Emigration to British North America, 1783-1837. This study has remained a standard reference on its subject and for some time has been available for purchase only through second-hand channels. In the intervening years Miss Cowan maintained an active interest in this field of history; for the present volume she has revised the earlier study in the light of her own and others' investigations and has expanded her discussion to include another quarter-century. The book is an attempt to give students and general readers something of the story of the outpouring of British subjects who peopled British North America in the years before Confederation. Economic dislocations coincident with the Napoleonic Wars and the industrial and agricultural revolutions were causing a vast uprooting of population. At the same time, the beginning of political and humanitarian reform brought a demand for assistance in poor relief, for land, labour and other improvements at home and for government aid in emigrating to the colonies. The author describes the various policies of governments on emigration, the activities of timber, mercantile and land companies which became greatly interested in the flow of population overseas, and the efforts of individual and societies to help the needy who took part in this epic movement.

The Remarkable Case of Davidson's Eyes Illustrated H G Wells 2021-01-04 The transitory mental aberration of Sidney Davidson, remarkable enough in itself, is still more remarkable if Wade's explanation is to be credited. It sets one dreaming of the oddest possibilities of intercommunication in the future, of spending an intercalary five minutes on the other side of the world, or being watched in our most secret operations by unsuspected eyes. It happened that I was the immediate witness of Davidson's seizure, and so it falls naturally to me to put the story upon paper.

Written Culture in a Colonial Context Adrien Delmas 2012-01-20 Exploring the extent to which the control over the materiality of writing has shaped the numerous and complex processes of cultural exchange from the 16th century onwards, this book introduces the specificities of written culture anchored in colonial contexts.

A New Pocket Dictionary of the English and Spanish Languages 1823

Lhasa and Central Tibet Gombojab Tsybikov 2021-04-11 In "Lhasa and Central Tibet," Gombojab Tsybikov offers a compelling exploration of the geographical and cultural intricacies of Tibet during the early 20th century. Written in an engaging narrative style, the book deftly intertwines travelogue and ethnography, depicting Tsybikov's own journeys through the heart of Central Tibet, particularly Lhasa, its sacred capital. The author employs vivid imagery and precise observations, drawing readers into the rich tapestry of Tibetan life, spirituality, and political intricacies during a period of significant change and tension in the region. His keen insights into the Buddhist practices and local customs highlight the juxtaposition of tradition and modernity, making the text a valuable resource for understanding Tibetan culture in a global context. Gombojab Tsybikov, a notable Mongolian explorer and writer, was profoundly influenced by his background in a nation steeped in Buddhist traditions. His travels to Tibet were motivated not only by a personal quest for knowledge but also by an interest in fostering mutual understanding between cultures. Tsybikov's extensive research and firsthand experiences in Tibet position him as a credible voice, bridging Eastern and Western perspectives in an era of increasing globalization. This book is highly recommended for scholars of Tibetan studies, historians, and anyone interested in the cultural exchanges between Asia and the West. Tsybikov's insights provide a lens through which contemporary readers can engage with the complexities of Tibetan identity and heritage, making it an essential addition to any library focused on the region.

Field manual for African archaeology Alexandre Livingstone-Smith 2017 "This manual aims at explaining essential concepts pertaining to the practice of conducting archaeological field work in Africa. No fewer than 63 authors draw on their practical experience in the field to cover specific topics. It seeks to provide concise and readable notes that can be consulted in the field. Each chapter corresponds to a specific phase in the investigative process, from locating and excavating a site, to cataloguing and interpreting findings, and then publishing the results." --Home page
